

Women, Peace, and Security Act SME

As a defense mission professional, you ask questions others don't. You understand the nuances of complex situations. You'll use your expertise to think bigger and push further, solving complex problems. We're looking for an expert like you to create solutions for missions that keep our nation safe.

As a SME on the Women, Peace, and Security Act (WPSA), you'll bring your expertise to work on projects for USCYBERCOM. You'll be a trusted advisor to our clients, and we'll look to you to identify, analyze, and implement solutions for our client.

You will guide the work we do for this unique mission area and the solutions we deliver for our Nation's cyberspace mission.

The Women, Peace, and Security Act SME will Have:

- An Active TS/SCI clearance; willingness to take a polygraph exam.
- A Bachelor's degree in a technical or business field
- Five years of experience in working with the Women, Peace, and Security Act (WPSA)
- Experience in coordinating with the government to support WPSA-relevant planning efforts, as appropriate
- Experience with coordinating and making recommendations to integrate the WPSA into USCYBERCOM plans for the requirements, objectives, and priorities of WPSA initiatives
- Experience with reviewing draft and proposed WPSA-relevant updates to the Unified Command Plan, rules of engagement, Global Employment of the Force, U.S. legislation, and Joint Capabilities Integration Development System (JCIDS) documents for correctness and consistency with USCYBERCOM and DoD goals for the WPSA and making specific recommendations for change, if applicable
